The Market for Environmental Biotechnology The UK's Department of Trade and Industry estimated that 15-20% of the global environmental market in 2001 was biotech-based, which amounted to about 250-300 billion US dollars and the industry is projected to grow by as much as ten-fold over the following five years.

Environmental Biotechnology Principles and Applications

However, the complexity of the microbial communities involved in environmental biotechnology often is beyond quantitative description; unquantifiable observations are of the utmost value. In Environmental Biotechnology: Principles and Applications, we connect these different facets of environmental biotechnology.

Environmental Biotechnology: Principles and Applications

Environmental biotechnology is not an easy subject to cover, but therefore so much the more important that it should be. For years, the environmental technologies had a little too much tail wind because of the overwhelming sympathy for green solutions. This often led to misuse and discredit of the technologies among some end users.
